SUBJECT: MFA LEGAL ADVISER HANS WINKLER BECOMES AUSTRIA'S
NEW STATE SECRETARY FOR EUROPEAN AFFAIRS

THIS MESSAGE IS SENSITIVE BUT UNCLASSIFIED - PLEASE PROTECT ACCORDINGLY. NOT FOR INTERNET DISTRIBUTION.

1.(SBU) On July 4, Hans Winkler, heretofore the Austrian Foreign Ministry's Legal Advisor and number three official, became new State Secretary in the MFA. European Affairs will be the core portfolio for this new position. Winkler, who is not affiliated with any political party, is a top diplomat and will be a key asset for the GOA in carrying out the EU Presidency in the first half of 2006.

2.(U) Some opposition politicians criticized the appointment of an additional State Secretary. The government of Wolfgang Schussel had resisted for years creating the position for fear of seeming to expand the government. However, the opposition Greens welcomed Winkler's nomination as a necessary step for the EU Presidency. Winkler stressed that he will not receive any additional staff, but will head over 100 MFA personnel in charge of preparing for and carrying out the EU Presidency. With the creation of a State Secretary to handle EU affairs, the GOA follows the practice of several other EU countries. During its last EU Presidency in 1998, Benita Ferrero-Waldner, who is now EU Commissioner, was Austria's State Secretary for European Affairs.

3.(U) The Foreign Ministry has not yet announced who will assume charge of the legal office. Christian Ebner, Winkler's deputy, will move to Winkler's state secretariat. However, Winkler and Ebner will remain

Comment

5.(SBU) The assignment of Winkler is an important step toward a successful Austrian EU Presidency in 2006. Winkler has been a key adviser to Chancellor Schuessel and Foreign Minister Plassnik. He has been an excellent, cooperative and flexible interlocutor for the USG. Both government and opposition parties value him highly as top diplomat and legal expert. With his extroverted and warmhearted personality, Winkler is popular throughout the Austrian political class.
